

Odd Glimpses of the War

No, these are not chorus men. Despite their ballet skirts, tights, and fancy shoes; these Greek Highlanders are real fighters. They are seasoned campaigners, and may have an opportunity to test their prowess—but clad in more war-like garb

© International Film Service

Members of the American Red Cross in Belgrade spraying Serbian soldiers with disinfectant upon their return from a long stay at the front. Serbia is still vermin-infested and disease-ridden, although typhus has been stamped out