

In this War of Big Guns

An Austrian shell bursting close to the Italian trenches. The photographer who snapped this picture was buried under the earth thrown up by the explosion, and two men standing beside him were killed

German artillerymen carrying a heavy 21-centimeter (8.4 inch) shell to the big gun emplacements which line the Russian front

Huge quantities of ammunition captured from the Russians are of Japanese manufacture. Above are a large number of Japanese shells, captured from the Russians near Grodno. Below is shown a fort in which the Germans found a complete equipment of Japanese artillery