

Natural Citadels in the Austrian Mountains

© International Press Exchange from International Film Service

A glimpse of the Tyrolean Alps in war time. An Austrian patrol has secured, by means of ladders and alpenstocks, a position on a high rock commanding an important pass. The difficulty of dislodging even so small a number of armed men may well be imagined